ITALY

CORPORATE M&A

2025

by Vincenzo Rozzo

Based on data collected by LC Publishing's research center, with 2,015 lawyers active in Corporate M&A across the country and 421 partners leading the field, the practice continues to consolidate its position as one of the most sophisticated legal segments in Italy, both in domestic and cross-border transactions.

The size of the talent pool dedicated to Corporate M&A reflects the centrality of this practice area within Italian law firms. M&A, still one of the most strategic offerings for full-service firms, requires deep sector competence, international outlook, and advanced negotiation capabilities.

A crucial element in understanding today's market is the gender distribution within these teams. While the overall composition of Corporate M&A departments shows a relatively balanced presence - 43% women and 57% men - the picture changes significantly at partnership level. Only 20% of partners are women, compared with 80% men, highlighting a clear discrepancy between entry-mid level representation and leadership representation. Although this gender gap mirrors broader trends within professional services in Italy, it also signals a structural challenge. Law firms increasingly recognize the importance of gender-balanced leadership in improving decision-making, innovation, and client perception; however, progress remains slow and uneven across firms.

Client base and demand trends

Corporate M&A practices serve a broad spectrum of clients, and the distribution of mandates provides insight into where firms are positioning themselves. In 2025, medium-sized enterprises account for the largest share of clients (44%), followed by small enterprises (30%), and large corporations (26%).

This composition underscores the increasing relevance of Italy's mid-market economy, traditionally driven by family-owned businesses and export-oriented manufacturing companies. The centrality of medium-sized clients is consistent with the wave of consolidation, internationalization, and investment activity that continues to characterize Italian mid-cap M&A. Many firms report significant growth in recurring advisory relationships with this segment, supported by private equity funds increasingly targeting mid-sized businesses with strong potential for aggregation or international expansion.

Large enterprises, although representing a smaller numerical share, remain essential in terms of deal value and complexity. Meanwhile, small businesses - often involving generational transitions - continue to generate activity particularly within family business M&A and corporate restructuring.

Revenue distribution by practice area

The revenue composition across Corporate-related practice areas confirms the breadth and specialization of services offered by leading Italian law firms. Based on 2025 data, M&A Mid-Market emerges as the largest contributor at 22%, highlighting the strong deal flow among Italy's medium-sized companies and the continued resilience of this segment. M&A Large Cap follows with 18%, reaffirming its strategic importance despite a more selective pipeline of mega-deals. These transactions continue to involve sophisticated cross-border structures, complex regulatory frameworks, and interactions with global financial sponsors and multinational investors.

Family business M&A accounts for 12%, a significantly larger share than in previous years and a reminder of Italy's deep-rooted family-owned corporate landscape. Private Equity contributes 15%, reflecting the sustained appetite of domestic and international funds for Italian assets, supported by strong mid-market dynamics. Advisory services represent 8%, underscoring clients' need for ongoing strategic and regulatory guidance beyond transactional mandates.

Other relevant practice areas include:

- Equity Capital Markets (2%), still affected by Italy's limited IPO activity and selective capital markets conditions;
- Corporate Restructuring (4%), tied to sector-specific distress and the need for operational turnaround;
- Corporate Compliance (8%), increasingly driven by ESG, governance requirements, and regulatory pressures;
- Tax M&A (3%), closely linked to transactional complexity and evolving tax frameworks;
- Venture Capital (4%), supported by a gradually expanding innovation and startup ecosystem.

Revenue distribution by industry

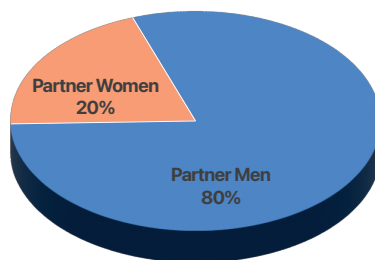

Industry data reveal a diversified client base with distinctive concentrations. Financial institutions (15%) and pharma (15%) lead as the most significant contributors to Corporate revenue, reflecting respectively the consolidation cycles in banking and insurance, and the strong resilience of the life sciences sector.

The food & beverage (12%) and fashion (11%) industries confirm Italy's traditional excellence in consumer and luxury sectors, areas where private equity and international investors remain highly active. Media & TLC (9%) reflects the ongoing digital transformation of Italy's communications landscape.

Notably, a broad 32% of revenue comes from "Other" industries, indicating that M&A practices serve a highly diversified economic base- from industrial manufacturing to logistics, energy, and technology. This broad exposure helps firms reduce dependency on specific sectors and respond to emerging trends such as ESG-driven transactions, infrastructure development, and digital platform consolidation.
